NEWS FOR VETERANS

Aching backs are the subject of a new Veterans Administration study to find how this common ailment begins and the best means of treatment for it. Announcement of the project was made by the agency in Washington, D. C.
VA is interested in back trouble caused by the "slipped disc"—actually a rupture of one of the round cushions of cartilage that lie between the vertebrae or bones of the snimal column.
Dr. Lyndon Lee, Jr., who coordinates this study for VA in Washington, said the agency wants to know what kind of people suffer these so-called "slipped discs," under what circumstances the condition occurs, and which of the available treatment methods produce the best results.
It may be that persons with unusual tissues, those doing certain kinds of work, or those especially susceptible to certain general categories of medical disorders are more likely to have ruptured discs than are others, he explained.
Military medical records maintained by the National Research Council and VA medical records will be used to study activities and medical history of veterans who have developed the conditions during the past 20 years, Dr. Lee said.
A representative group of these veterans will be allowed to come to VA hospitals for recheckp, so that VA orthopedic specialists and neurosurgeons can evaluate the results of treatment given previously. Dr. Lee said the study will enable VA doctors to compare the long-term results of different kinds of surgery and of nonoperative management for rupture discs.
These treatments may include use of non-surgical measures, such as massage, heat, rest, and braces, or surgery to remove the ruptured disc and on occasion fix or fuse a segment of the spine, he said.

TEACHERS TO PLAY AHS JUNIOR VARSITY IN BASKETBALL

The mold has been set for the spectacular of all spectacular at the Appomattox High School gymnasium this Friday night, when the faculty and junior varsity teams will face off in a game hoped to be recognized as basketball.
The sponsors released the following statement:
"The agile teachers seem to be in an excellent state of readiness with the help of rub-downs, liniment and a few braces to help those muscles that we all have for some reason or the other let go as we grew older. This will be an evening even the kiddies and grandma will understand as the rules have been set up in favor of those who don't understand the game too well and also for those who don't play the game as well as they once did.
"On hand to lead the mighty roars of victory for the teachers will be 'Doodles' Asher and "Boohey" Holley. You will in them see how the well-dressed teen-ager should look and act..
"Now for the line-up:
Girls (Humph)
"Cha Cha" Chambers, "Time Out" Taylor, "Fumbles" Ferrell, "Bean Ball" Beamer, "Fallen Arches" Martin, "Rotten Shot" Smith, "Headwind" Harvey, "Binder" Cyrus, "Cool Cat" Cunningham, "Double Dribble" Evans.
Boys: "Sneak Play" Smith, "Hook Shot" Hudson, "Bouncin'" Butler, "Backboard" Bussen, "Meat Ball" McLain, "Action Shot" Anderson, "Rocket Shot" Rush.
"The ball is pumped up and the teams are primed — so won't you bring out the family for the most rollicking show of the year at the Appomattox High School gym on Friday night, January 30, at 7:30 P. M.!"
